PRECISION ENGINEERING FOR MODERN FINANCE

SETTING UP YOUR INSTITUTION

| Your private workspace, ready in minutes

When your institution signs up, FinFlo creates a private workspace that belongs only to you. Your customers, loans, savings, staff, and books all live inside it, walled off from every other business on the platform. The person who signs up becomes the admin — the owner who can do everything and set up the rest.

Your first step is to fill in your business profile: your institution's name, contact details, and the settings that shape how you operate — things like your late-fee policy and transfer limits. These choices apply across your whole workspace, so once you set them, every loan and every transfer follows your institution's own rules.

Your own private space

Your workspace is fully isolated. No other institution can see your customers, your money, or your records — and you can't see theirs.

Your business profile

Set your institution's name, contact details, and operating policies once — they apply across everything you do on FinFlo.

Good to know

You can keep refining your profile and policies as you grow. Nothing is locked in at sign-up — your settings travel with your workspace and update everywhere at once when you change them.

BRANCHES

| One institution, many offices

If you operate from more than one location, you can set up a branch for each. A branch is more than a label: you assign staff to it, and your reporting can be broken down by branch, so you always know how each office is performing on its own.

Create your branches

Add a branch for each location you operate. New branches can be set up at any time as your institution grows.

Per-branch staff

Assign team members to a branch so they work with that office's customers and loans — keeping each location's work neatly separated.

Per-branch reporting

See performance for each office on its own, so you can compare branches and spot where to focus.

Why it matters

Because customers, loans, and money are tied to a branch, your per-branch numbers stay accurate — you can trust that each office's report reflects only its own activity.

YOUR TEAM & PERMISSIONS

Invite your team, control what they can do

You decide who works in your institution and exactly what each person can see and do. Invite staff, give each a role, and FinFlo enforces those boundaries everywhere — so a teller can do their job without being able to touch settings that aren't theirs.

Invite staff

Add team members to your workspace by invitation, so only people you approve can sign in.

Assign roles

Give each person a role that bundles the right permissions, so you're not setting access one item at a time.

Control access

Decide exactly what each role can view and change — lending, savings, payments, reports, and settings are all controlled separately.

Roles in plain terms

ROLE	WHAT THEY CAN DO
Admin (owner)	Can do everything — set up the institution, manage branches and staff, change policies, and see all reporting.
Branch manager	Runs a single branch and sees only that branch's customers, loans, and reporting — focused on the office they manage.
Staff member	Carries out day-to-day work — onboarding customers, recording repayments, and the tasks their role allows.

Boundaries that hold

A branch manager sees only their branch. A staff member can only do what their role permits. An admin can do everything. These limits are enforced automatically on every screen and every action — not just hidden from view.

MAKE IT YOURS — BRANDING

Your name on the door

FinFlo runs quietly in the background while your institution stays front and centre. Add your logo and your colours, and the app your customers use carries your identity — it looks and feels like your own product, not someone else's.

Your logo & look

Upload your logo and brand the experience so customers recognise your institution at every step.

A branded customer app

Your customers get a self-service app that's yours in name and appearance — a white-label experience, ready on web and mobile.

Always up to date

When you update your branding, the change reaches your customers right away — there's nothing to re-publish or reinstall.

BILLING & PLANS

A plan that fits how you grow

FinFlo is a subscription service. You choose a plan that suits the size and stage of your institution, and you can move up as you grow. When you'd like guidance on the right fit, you can talk to our team directly.

Subscription billing

Your institution pays a regular subscription to use the platform — simple and predictable.

Plan tiers

Choose the tier that matches your needs today, and upgrade as your customer base and activity grow.

Talk to sales

Not sure which plan is right? Reach out and our team will help you find the best fit for your institution.

No surprises

You always know which plan you're on and what it includes. If your needs change, you can adjust your plan or speak with our team about the right next step.

A DAY IN FINFLO

From a new customer to a clear dashboard

Here's how a typical day flows once you're set up. Each step hands clean, up-to-date information to the next, so your dashboard always reflects what's really happening across your institution.

1	Onboard a customer	Capture ID & documents (KYC)
2	Open an account or issue a loan	Savings, deposit, or new loan
3	Collect repayments	Record payments as they come in
4	See everything on your dashboard	Balances & reports, reconciled

STEP	WHAT HAPPENS
1 · Onboard a customer	Add a new customer with their national ID (CNIC) and documents. Their sensitive details are securely stored, and their record is ready to use across your institution.
2 · Open an account or issue a loan	Open a savings or deposit account, or issue a loan against the customer's limit. The platform sets up the repayment schedule for you.
3 · Collect repayments	Record repayments as they come in. Balances update instantly, late fees apply automatically when due, and overdue loans are flagged without you chasing them.
4 · See everything on your dashboard	Watch it all roll up onto your dashboard — balances, repayments, and per-branch reports that always reconcile with your books.

The whole loop, in one place

Onboard, open or lend, collect, and review — all inside FinFlo. Because every step records itself as it happens, you never have to reconstruct the day from separate tools.
